

Ali Noormohamed

What experience do you have in finance?

I have a business degree from McGill University. As such, I have had formal courses in accounting and finance. I have also managed figures and finances in various capacities in my career and in volunteering roles.

What is your level of proficiency in Excel?

I learned Excel as part of my business degree and have been improving my skills since then. At one point, I taught Excel as a side hustle. I have also used Excel in my career and in volunteering roles, thus I am relatively familiar with it.

What is your level of expertise in budgeting and financial statements?

I learned budgeting and how to read financial statements as part of my business degree. I have theoretical knowledge in this arena with limited practical experience, however, I would hit the ground running in terms of learning whatever is required to fulfill the needs of the role.